This is a Word Index to Martin Heidegger's (1889-1976) writings of his middle period. All words are indexed. Includes typos, translator's introductions, title pages, indexes, etc.

Introduction

The combined texts of the following volumes listed below are a total of 5242 pages. Seven volumes written in German by Heidegger (and a few pages of editors and translator notes). Five volumes of English translations. The combined total of indexed words adds up to 60,309 words.

This is an index to Heidegger's writing in the middle period. Starting with Basic questions of philosophy: selected "problems" of "logic" lectures given at the University of Freiburg in 1937–1938. These lectures were given during the time he was working on his second major project after Being and Time (1927); namely, his Contributions to Philosophy: (From Enowning) (1936-1940*)* and also translated as Contributions to Philosophy (of the Event). Short title in German is simply, Beiträge (GA 65). Note with Heidegger it is extremely problematic to call his later writing projects: "books" or "Hauptwerk". He explicit deny this attempt.

In general, these are large writing projects that Heidegger worked on between 1936 and 1944. Not included are his lecture (other than GA 45) series or essays etc. I have included GA 73 Zum Ereignis-Denken which has a much longer timeframe, since I consider one of Heidegger's most important working out his own philosophy. In my analysis, I think the majority of these texts were written in the mid-1940s. I would characterize these writings in general as his attempt as his own thinking and his own philosophy (his own 'leaps'). Heidegger says on the first page of the Beiträge, "keep its distance from every false claim to be a "work" in the previous style."

These writings, I think are all attempts by Heidegger to untangle the overall misinterpretation of Being and Time as being stuck in metaphysics thinking.

Edmund Husserl (1859-1938, his teacher and one of the proof readers of Being and Time), in his attack on philosophical anthropology mentioned Wilhelm

Dilthey (1833-1911) and Max Scheler (1874-1928); but Heidegger was the one who irks him the most. In his famous essay and lecture, Husserl started out saying "As is well known over the last decade some of the younger generation of German philosophers has been gravitating with ever increasing speed toward philosophical anthropology." ("Phenomenology and Anthropology", Husserl. June 1931. E.T., p. 485). Part of his attack was the stinging remarks Husserl which he made about Heidegger that Being and Time was only philosophical anthropology.

Heidegger writes this to his readers in an autobiographical essay he wrote in 1937-1938, entitled: "The Wish and the Will (On Preserving What is Attempted).

"…would not have let the misinterpretation of Being and Time (Sein und Zeit) as a mere "ontology" of man…" ((Mindfulness, GA 66, page 367.

Heidegger goes on…

"In its new approach this Contributions to Philosophy should render manifest the range of the question of Being. A detailed unfolding here is not necessary because this all too easily narrows down the actual horizon and misses the thrust of questioning. But even here that form has not yet been attained, which, precisely at this point, I demand for a publication as a "work". For here the new style of thinking must announce itself – the reservedness in the truth of Be-ing; the saying of silence in reticence, the maturing for the swayingness of the unblended.

The worst that could happen to these efforts would be the psychological biographical analysis and explanation, that is, the counter-movement to what is precisely assigned to us, namely to place everything "psychic emotional" - however intimately it has to be preserved and enacted – at the service of that aloneness which is demanded by the work that strikes one as strange. (Mindfulness, GA 66, page 377)

In the Beiträge (GA 65), we read Heidegger on Heidegger basically, ten years after he wrote Being and Time,

"In Being and Time (1927) Da-sein still stands in the shadow of the "anthropological," the "subjectivistic," and the "individualistic," etc. – and yet the opposite of all of this is what we have in view - of course, not as what was initially and solely intended, but rather this opposite, everywhere only the necessary consequence of the deciding transformation of the "question of „Das Da-sein steht in „Sein und Zeit" noch im Anschein des „Anthropologischen" und „Subjektivistischen" und „Individualistischen" u.s.f., und doch ist von allem das Gegen-teil im blick; freilich nicht als das zuerst und nur Beabsichtigte, sondern dieses Gegenteilige überall nur als die notwendige Folge der entscheidenden Wandlung der „Seinsfrage" aus der Leitfrage in die Grundfrage." (Beiträge zur Philosophie (Vom Ereignis) (1936-1939) (GA 65, p. 295).

Being" from guiding-question into the grounding-question." (Contributions to Philosophy (Vom Ereignis). et. p. 208*)*

To fully develop this topic, Heidegger uses an interesting word to attempt to name the problem of "anthropological", the "subjectivistic", and the "individualistic," with in his analysis of Da-sein in Being and Time, he says stands in the 'shadow' the German word is ‚Anschein' and you can also translate it as appearance, semblance, facade, pretense or charade. I am not sure the term 'shadow' really gets to the point. Heidegger is trying to pull away from the web of the subjective nature of an analysis of Da-sein and he is trying hard. Perhaps we should say too 'hard'. At some point, Heidegger has given this up as an inherent problem within Being and Time. If Being and Time is a Grundwerk and the Beiträge is a Hauptwerk, then both are trying to get past the Leitfrage (guiding question) to the Grundfrage (grounding question). To use Descartes' metaphor, we have to go back to the ground wherein the tree of metaphysics and philosophy is growing. Kant was pointing this direction with phrase of "the metaphysics of metaphysics". The movement toward "foundationalism" within philosophy and for Heidegger certainly within ontology. In Heidegger middle period, he certainly, wants to get pass the "metaphysical" sides of his thinking. So, for Heidegger there is both internal and external processes at work on his own path to overcome the left over metaphysical tendencies (even positivism). Overcoming (Überwindung) and twisting (Verwindung) of metaphysics and western philosophy as onto-theo-logic.

Perhaps the best example, is Heidegger's flirtation with the Kantism transcendental philosophy as transcendental subject. Within a few years, Heidegger rejected this kind of thinking.

Heidegger also reads Jean-Paul Sartre's (1905-1980) Being and Nothingness (1943) during this time in 1945. The "Letter on Humanism" Heidegger wrote in December 1946 responding to a number of questions by Jean Beaufret about French existentialism. Heidegger denies existentialism.

Following Nietzsche, Heidegger in the late 1930s disavowal metaphysics and comes up with his own metahistory of metaphysics and ontology. (see “As the "true world" finally became a fable. History of an Error”, Nietzsche’s Metahistory in six stages). This was the following up on the section from Being and Time, entitled: “6. The task of Destroying the history of ontology”.

One major outward appearance of the change in the project was the Question of the Meaning (Sinn) of Being, progressed to the Question of the Truth of Being. Heidegger was working through his own path and his journey to the main question, namely, Leitfrage to the Grundfrage (guiding-question into the grounding-question).

Interesting influence at this time. In the summer of 1946 upon request from Heidegger a Chinese philosopher Paul Hsiao and Heidegger worked on a translation of Chapters 1, 15, 18, 25, 32, 37, 40, and 41 of the Tao Te Ching by Laozi (other spelling, Lao Tzu). This Chinese classical text is over 2000 years old. Heidegger is reported to have read Buber’s 1910 translations of Chinese Taoist texts by the 1920s as well. Paul Hsiao gave up this project as Heidegger was using his violent (he said himself) hermeneutical methodology to over interpret the text. One of the rules of the Tuesday night Greek classical meeting was the Heidegger would not go first with his translation. Remember that Heidegger himself was doing philosophy and not philology. Heidegger was clear to his readers with these remarks in 1950.

“Readers have taken constant offense at the violence of my interpretations (Gewaltsamkeit meiner Auslegungen). Their allegation of violence can indeed be supported by this text (gut belegt). Philosophicohistorical research is always correctly subject to this charge whenever it is directed against attempts to set in motion a thoughtful dialogue between thinkers. In contrast to the methods of historical philology, which has its own task, a thoughtful dialogue is bound by other laws ---laws which are more easily violated (verletzlicher). In a dialogue the possibility of going astray is more threatening, the shortcomings are more frequent.” (Kant and the problem of metaphysic, Preface to the Second Edition, GA 3, June 1950).

Heidegger in these middle texts, the name, Nietzsche appears a great deal. All attempts to find hidden influence and sources of Heidegger’s thought are general beside the points. He was an unique and originally thinker (FULL STOP) ! In brief, he transformed everything he read and matured over time. Here is an example of his general relationship to some earlier philosophers.

From Beiträge (GA 65, page 176).

“Leibniz's unfathomable diversity of the question approach make visible and yet instead of the monas think of Da-sein; to understand Kant's main steps and yet the overcome the "transcendental” approach; to ask Schelling’s question of freedom and yet think the »modalities« differently; to being Hegel's system into the dominant view and but think completely opposite; to dare to confront Nietzsche as the closed, and yet recognize that he is furthest away from the question of Being.”

General background

Heidegger discusses book indexes in 1974,

“Diese besonnene Arbeit am Index erbrachte der Verfasserin einen so reichen und verläßlichen Durchblick durch mein.” And “Zwar haben wir öfter in Gesprächen die Grenzen und Gefahren eines Index erörtert. (GA 16, 738-740). Thanks Ted Kisiel in 2012 for pointing this out). This from a note about the memorial words of thanks for FRAU DR. HILDEGARD FEICK (her eulogy). She did an early index to Sein und Zeit (1968) for Martin Heidegger.

Martin Heidegger wrote in 1946: “Wörterbücher sind deshalb, wenn sie zum Auslegen gebraucht werden, so unentbehrlich, wie sie gefährlich sind.“ „ “Dictionaries are therefore, when they are needed for laying out, as indispensable as they are dangerous (gefährlich).” (GA 78, page 52). Der Spruch des Anaximander.

Heidegger here is the whole passage in German:

“Ist dafür, daß wir dies denken, schon dadurch die Gewähr gegeben, daß wir dem

Wörterbuch gemäß statt Elvat sagen »sein«? Keineswegs. Denn das Wörterbuch gibt in der lexikalischen Aufweisung der Wörter diesen schon eine Auslegung mit. Diese Auslegung muß jedesmal neu geprüft werden. Wörterbücher sind deshalb, wenn sie zum Auslegen gebraucht werden, so unentbehrlich, wie sie gefährlich sind.“ GA 78, page 52. Der Spruch des Anaximander.

„Wir halten uns an die ursprüngliche Wortbedeutung. Dieser Weg über die Erläuterung der Wurzelbedeutung der Wörter und des Wortes ist, für alle weiteren Fälle sei dies hier gesagt, voller Gefahren. Die bloße Beherrschung des Sprachgebrauches und die Benutzung der Wörterbücher reicht nicht aus, um ihn zu gehen. Was noch und vor allem dazu gehört, darf hier nicht weitläufig erörtert werden.“ Heraklits Lehre vom Logos, page 194.
